PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Happy Independence Day! WOW!!! Can you believe that we are already halfway through 2023? The year is flying by quickly. This also means that it is time to start thinking about 2024 QGI leadership.

Joyce Blakely, Anita Harden, and Karen Nealis will be the QGI Nominating Committee working to identify individuals for 2024 QGI Vice President and Secretary positions. The 2024 QGI Vice President will become the 2025 QGI President.

If you would like to get more involved with QGI by serving in a leadership position, we would welcome that. If you have questions about what each role involves, talk to someone who has been in the position, contact a member of the Nominating Committee, or take a look at the QGI bylaws available here: Microsoft Word - QGI Bylaws 2019.docx \(quiltguildindy.net\)

In addition to the Vice President and Secretary positions, we will also be looking for leaders for the following roles:

- QGIN Leader
- QGIS Leader
- Charity Quilts
- Quilt Show Positions

Please let us know if you would like to step up and fill one of these positions. Being active in QGI is the best way to get to know our members and can be a lot of fun!

Also, last call for anyone who would like to sign up to participate in the 2023 QGI Whispers Quilt Project. We have 5 groups that have been working on their secret Whisper Quilts from February through June. We will have our big reveal of these quilts at the December 1 QGI holiday party. For more details check out the January newsletter starting on page 13 available here: Jan 2023 NL copy reduced 3 \(quiltguildindy.net\) It is not too late to decide to participate; please contact Carol Marlin to join the fun!

Happy Quilting!

Betsy LaBell
2023 QGI President

QGI EVENING MEETING

Thursday, June 8, 2023

Betsy LaBell, president, welcomed everyone to the June meeting at Orchard Park Presbyterian Church. June birthdays were celebrated and a small gift was given to each person having a June birthday.

Libby Gilbert, program co-chair introduced Lorrie Cranor, who presented her program “Computers, Quilts and Privacy” via Zoom from Pennsylvania.

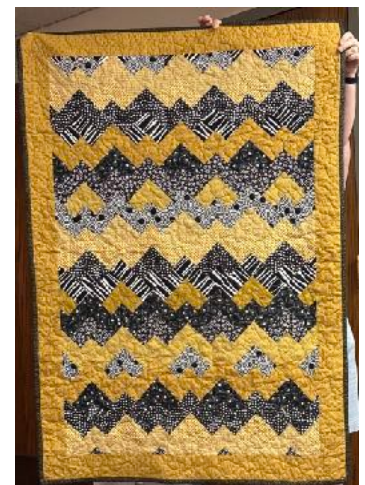

- Lorrie began quilting nearly 30 years ago to relieve stress while she was working on graduate studies in Computer Science and Engineering. She is a professor of Computer Science and of Engineering and Public Policy at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania where she specializes in Security and Privacy Technologies. Lorrie took a leave of absence for a year from Carnegie Mellon to visualize privacy and security in an art form. She created a fabric picture of herself using small squares of fabric in the style of Salvatore Dali in “Lincoln in Dalivision”.
- She once gave a talk on TEDx entitled “What’s Wrong With Your Pa$$w0rd”. In the classroom, she teaches students how to make passwords that are easy but secure. She made a “Password Quilt”, where she used color and size of fabric pieces to denote how often a particular password was used. She called the quilt “Security Blanket”.
- Another technique that she has explored is “Interleave”. The design is formed by cutting thin horizontal strips from two panels of fabric and piercing horizontally, alternating strips of fabric from each panel. Strips can be shifted to the right or left to form complex looking wave patterns. Instructions for Interleave quilts may be found online at lorriecranor.org.

Announcements:

- Congratulations!!! Beth Braun took classes in Paducah to become a certified quilt appraiser. She and two other students took their final test this year and all three passed! Beth brought an amazing selection of mini cupcakes to celebrate June birthdays and her recent accomplishment. She noted that quilts have been declining in value even while the supplies to make quilts have been increasing in cost.

  - Kevin Womack will have a trunk show on August 10th.
  - Annie Unrein will speak on September 14th about “Weekend Projects and Small Gifts”.

JULY 13 QGI EVENING MEETING
ORCHARD PARK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
7-9PM (also on Zoom)

Our speaker for the July 8 meeting will be Katie Fowler, Her lecture topic will be "Navigating the Creative Wonderland." This will be a lighthearted lecture that will help you navigate your creative process by helping you understand the magic of KNOW, GO, GROW, FLOW. You will leave with inspiration and permission to find your creative bliss.

Katie found art quilting after a short lived stint as a fine art major and a longer stint as an elementary school teacher. Her first quilt was truly "unlovely" and she soon learned that following patterns was not where she found her bliss. She found it painting on fabric and layering and stitching the paintings to provide texture and structure. She is a fearless quilter, sometimes she even cuts them up... paintings as well as finished quilts.

Kevin Womack will be presenting a workshop via Zoom on Saturday, August 12 from 9-3 called "Simply Stunning Stars." You can sign up by going to quiltindy.net>Workshops>Simply Stunning Stars. The cost of the workshop is $50 for members or $60 for non-members, or $52/$62 if paying online. It will be a fun workshop where you will have an opportunity to put together some of the large prints you may have been collecting. The quilt pattern is included.

QGI members Stacked and Whacked with Mary Strinka on June 3rd

Many of us gathered in Zionsville to learn from Mary Strinka, and she did not disappoint. She had many examples of her fine workmanship in a wide variety of styles of Stack N Whack (SNW) quilts. She shared both simple and complicated quilt versions and encouraged each attendee to make the best use of the fabric they had.

Before getting into specific techniques, Mary and everyone wandered around the room to see fabrics which had been brought. According to each person's wishes, and taking the amount of fabric they had, Mary provided guidance on what might be done and important things each of us should consider. An added bonus were additional creative consultations by other attendees. Many gorgeous fabrics were scrutinized and many times lusted after. Specifically, Maureen had a large amount of yardage of an amazing African print, which we voted would be perfect for a different project and one that didn't ask to be cut into many small pieces. She had another multicolor floral print that was crying out to be both stacked and whacked.

Some like Barb Triscari weren't sure if the fabric they had (in her case the end of a bolt from the going out of business sale at Quilt Expression), but Mary made it seem that everything was possible, we just had to be brave and carry on. Pam, who had some half-finished SNW projects she'd previously started, decided to ignore them again and cut up a cactus fabric provided by Mary instead. The need for some yellow and some orange fabric enabled her to have reason to visit an amazing quilt shop in Branson, Missouri. Not that Pam ever really needs a reason to buy fabric, of course.

Patty Davis had some lovely multicolored jewel-toned fabric that she chose to cut into very large triangles. She left the workshop with plans on how to finish a quilt time in a snap. Thanks again to Mary Strinka for leading this wonderful workshop.

UPCOMING QGIN Events You Should Plan to Attend by Pam Durant

Yes, I am prejudiced, I think you all should attend all QGI meetings each opportunity, but we have some special ones coming up for QGIN that I hope you have make time to attend at the Barrington In Carmel.

July 7th will be a Gold Crown Event, or at least a fun fascinator event. Maureen Weflen, Maggie Carr, Mary Ellen Straughn and Shari Harrison had an epic adventure in Great Britain, visiting England, Wales, and the Birmingham International Quilt Show among other places lead by Brandy Maslowski, a recent speaker at QGIN. Maureen and Maggie will represent the group and recount their trip to with photos in a jam-packed slide show of all their adventures. Maureen will bring the quilt she bought in England and some coronation fabrics to see. Maggie is bringing homemade scones! It will be interesting, I love to live vicariously through their travels and anxiously look forward to this event.

Aug 4th you'll be treated to a talk I've been working on for a while on Map Quilts. I plan to give an overview of maps in fabric and quilts through history and up to the present. I will show you a number of ways you might choose to make a map quilt, and tease a variety of styles. Then in October I will give a workshop Making Map Quilts. Why the time gap? To give you time to figure out what type of map you want to make, and buy or have made (think of the sources Leigh and Barb talked about). I think no one would show up if this was scheduled for the day after my lecture. I am hoping I'm not talking to an empty room on October 7th in Zionsville. Admittedly, right now many of you would probably say that you never thought of making a map quilt, so you aren't interested. Hopefully, after my talk, you will feel differently. A civil war battlefield map for your brother-in-law? A special map with his favorite places for our autistic grandson? A map of your current or former hometown? The possibilities are endless.

Sept 1st you'll get to learn about six quilt contests sponsored by the Indianapolis Star starting in 1976. Some harken back to the early blocks carried in the 20s and 30s, asking for a new twist on these blocks. Play back the memory tapes and see if you or your friends (guild members or not) may have made a quilt for one of the Star contests. Please bring them to the meeting if possible. See the complete schedule of QGIN meetings on the next page

QGI-North Meeting - June 2 - Barrington of Carmel, 1335 S. Guilford Rd, Carmel

June 2, 2023 1-3 pm The Barrington of Carmel (1335 S Guilford Rd) will be the location for all remaining QGI North meetings in 2023

Our leader Pam Durant welcomed everyone and we sang happy birthday for those with June birthdays. Our past president, Lynn Thomas, gave an overview/demonstration of how Electric Quilt (EQ8) software program works to design your own quilt or preview a quilt to see the yardage you need, construction of the blocks and changes in colors in the quilt. You can purchase it for Mac or PC, prices vary but it runs about $240.00 on the EQ8 website, to $145 on Target or Amazon. Lynn said sometimes after she has drawn it in EQ she doesn't need to make the real thing. However, it can help tremendously in giving the basic look of a quilt before you make it. The program allows you to even scan in pictures of fabric if you want to use the real thing versus use representative library color blocks. Lynn created a handout with the blocks she was using in her sample quilt to make it easier to follow – it is still available in the Forum where the meeting link was located. The lecture is available to watch if you missed it or want to review some details (there are soooo many parts of EQ). Members>Forum>Meeting Links or Meeting Recordings

Announcements

- Lynn Thomas is looking for volunteers to join the tech team. If we want to continue to have zoom options for our meetings, a few people need to share the load with Lynn.
- QGI evening meetings—we are planning our 2024 programs. If you have a specific type of workshop or speaker you would like for us to book, please let Libby Gilbert or Jacqui Griswold know.
- The October meeting will be a live and silent auction fund raiser for the Guild at the Zionsville town hall. We are encouraged to bring anyone who might be interested in purchasing a quilt. Many beautiful quilts have already been donated, some were shown today. Consider making a small quilt/table topper (no size specifications) for the auction.
- Charity Quilts – Kits and quilts needing various parts completed were available after the meeting for people to take home and finish. Mary Strinka said the Charity work group meets the 3rd Thursday of the month but will not be meeting in July.

South Meeting –June 22, 2023

Friedens United Church of Christ

8300 S. Meridian, Indianapolis - 10:30am

Leanne Anderson opened the meeting. Vacation season is upon us as was evident by the smaller group (19 members, no guests) in attendance this month. There were no birthdays to celebrate this month.

Selena Krajewski, a pattern designer was our speaker this month. She was very interesting as she talked about her journey to becoming a designer.

Start saving your scraps that could be used in a landscape quilt. We are having a mini class in landscape quilts. Margaret Toll will be speaking about landscape quilts in July. Don't forget to bring those scraps.

Announcements:

QGIS is in need of someone willing to be backup for our ZOOM meetings. If you have an interest in doing this, please see Leanne.

Margie Lindeman had a new BOM, Shooting Star, to share with us. Anyone who is participating in BOM this year who finishes their quilt and brings it to the January 2024 meeting will be eligible for a gift certificate from Back Door Quilts.

Five members had Show and Tell. Door prizes were awarded to those present. Enjoy some photos of the May and June meetings below.

The next meeting for QGIS will be July 27.

A VISIT TO SEE THE LAST SUPPER QUILT
MOUNT OLIVE LUTHERAN QUILT MINISTRY
5171 W. Smokey Row Rd., Greenwood, IN 46143
www.moconnect.org
By Maureen Weflen

On Saturday, June 24, I drove to the Mount Olive Lutheran Church for a viewing and presentation of the Last Supper Quilt. Over the course of more than 2 years, the church's Quilt Ministry Team gathered on Tuesdays to create this 5' x 15' quilt reproduction of DaVinci's Last Supper using 47,752 1" squares of fabric

In addition to the history of quilting at this church presented by Janine Owen, Office Administrator, and member of the Quilt Ministry Team, Senior Pastor Jeff Alexander shared the church's connection to the Calvary India Mission Tailoring Center. He also explained the symbolism in the last supper painting. The members of the Quilt Ministry Team creates quilts for local and global missions, comfort quilts and pillow cases. Samples of their beautiful work were displayed on the rows of seats in the sanctuary. Other quilts were displayed in other areas of the church.

Following the presentation we were able to tour a step by step display of how the quilt was created (more on that on the next page), see more examples of quilts and quilted items created by the team, a tour of their sewing room and stash of donated fabrics, and we were treated to homemade baked goods and lemonade.

I highly recommend making a trip to see the quilt. The sanctuary is open Mondays through Thursdays from 10am to 3pm. The Office Administrator's phone number is 317-422-9991 should you need further information. The Quilt Ministry Team meets every Tuesday if you want to see them in action!

May 9 – July 29: 1876 Centennial Quilt Project

After discovering an extraordinary quilt from Connecticut in an online quilt history forum and securing permission from its owner, a quilt group from Northwest Washington began the journey of patterning The 1876 Centennial Quilt. Set in a unique Medallion-style arrangement, this quilt contains over 70 individual block patterns. Each quilt maker skillfully and beautifully interpreted the original quilt and the quilts represent a wide variety of styles. The exhibit is a mix of quilts from the original project begun in 2015, and, as the reach of the 1876 Centennial Quilt Project has grown, more recent additions. As the quilt makers honed their skills, they learned much about themselves and forged lasting friendships.

They invite you to enjoy the quilts, read the stories and begin your own journey with the 1876 Centennial Quilt. Curated by: Anne Dawson.
